The slips bore notations such as "N. R. for John" and "N. J. Miss Esmond was touring at the Long B. me."

Most of the funds had been deposited many years ago, while Miss Esmond was touring at the height of her career. Finally he decided the notes in her later years, she apparmight represent bank accounts. He sent out mimeographed letters never touching the scattered bank to several hundred banks asking accounts.

'FDR' Has a Magic Name, But It Won't Fix up Everything

By William F. Arbogast
WASHINGTON, May 19—(P)—
The name "FDR" is magic one in these parts but it won't fix up everything for Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., when he comes to Congress.
